DELHI METRO RAIL CORP. PUBLIC NOTICE

Ensuring safe and efficient airplane operations relies heavily on effective wildlife management both at and around the airport. The cooperation of the local community is vital for maintaining proper waste management and hygiene in the surrounding areas. Preventing unsanitary conditions and garbage accumulation is essential, as these can attract animals, including birds. Once drawn to these areas, animals may establish a presence, which could disrupt the smooth functioning of airport operations.

Common sources that attract animals are as follows:

- Open household waste dumping: local communities are required to ensure that domestic waste is appropriately disposed of in covered shelters or closed containers.
- Open meat waste: Most wildlife species are drawn to open meat shops. There should be no open meat shops near the airport that dispose of waste outdoors.
- Water accumulation: There should be no water accumulation, whether natural or artificial, as it can become a breeding ground for mosquitoes. This, in turn, attracts wildlife species such as bats and poses a significant health risk to humans, increasing the chances of diseases like dengue, malaria, and chikungunya.
- Open bird feeding: Open bird feeding, especially of pigeons at traffic signals or local churches, should be strictly prohibited around airports. Such feeding sites attract large numbers of birds, which can significantly increase bird populations and pose serious safety risks to aviation operations in the area.
- Open dumping sites: Waste from building and demolition projects should not be dumped in open areas, as these open areas can become breeding grounds and hiding places for various mammal species, including dogs, cats, mongooses, and others.

The support and awareness of the local community are essential to effectively address these issues in their specific areas, ensuring both passenger safety and the smooth operation of air traffic.
